What policies do we need to ensure that technology plays a productive role in our future?

How does technology impact our society and politics?

Join us this summer at Stanford University for a week-long institute with high school students from across the country!

Hear from tech innovators, policymakers, and academics about technology's impacts on our democracy, the global environment, education, and the workforce.

Produce a youth report on how to make social media more democratic and earn a Certification in Civil Discourse through Close Up and DDL!
